

ABOUT

COLLECTION FOR CURES

Collection for Cures is the John Paul II Stem Cell Research Institute's national gift program that raises dollars to advance ethical, non-controversial stem cell research to find cures and provide education.

The program invites churches to participate by (1) placing a Collection for Cures flyer in their bulletin and (2) by giving a suggested donation of $1,000. The Church may not want to give a donation, but would be happy to put the flyer in the bulletin. Either way works.

Placing the flyer in the bulletin is very important because it introduces the Institute and invites people with genetic disorders to join the Institute's Patient Repository and donate their tissue. The flyer also invites mothers to donate cord blood from the placenta at the time of birth. In addition, it touches on the importance of ethical adult stem cell research and how people can get involved to help or donate.

UNIQUE APPROACH

The John Paul II Stem Cell Research Institute (JP2SRI) is a non-profit organization with a focus and commitment to do only ethical research, that exclusively uses adult stem cells, not embryos.

Using cutting edge methods, the Institute is paving the way to find cures using its disease-specific adult stem cells for rare diseases and cancer. This unique use of disease-specific adult stem cells can potentially save years in the research cycle to find cures or therapies.

THE IOWA KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS PARTNER WITH INSTITUTE

The Iowa Knights of Columbus, whose focus is on the culture of life, has partnered with the John Paul II Stem Cell Research Institute in the Collection for Cures program. They are helping to get the flyers into the Churches and invite them to donate for cures.

IOWA BISHOPS WRITE LETTERS OF SUPPORT FOR INSTITUTE

Dubuque, IA--Archbishop Hanus "I commend your attempt to develop stem cell cures and therapies in an ethically appropriate way by engaging in adult stem cell research exclusively, and your commitment to a pro-life ethics..."

Davenport, IA—Bishop Amos "I am pleased that your mission is to advance adult stem cell research that is consistent with the dignity of human life and that your plans include training the next generation of scientists in bioethics..."

Des Moines, IA—Bishop Pates "I look forward to following your work. Adult stem cell research is supported by the Church because of the great potential to find cures to end needless suffering with no ethical concerns..."

Sioux City, IA—Bishop Nickless "It is a blessing for me to support the efforts of the John Paul II Stem Cell Research Institute and your work to find cures and therapies exclusively using adult stem cells with an emphasis on sound moral teaching..."

BULLETIN INSERT

COLLECTION for CURES

The John Paul II Stem Cell Research Institute (JP2SRI) is a non-profit research organization with a focus on finding cures ethically. The research exclusively uses adult stem cells, not embryos, to find cures for rare and not-so-rare diseases. The purpose of Collection for Cures is to raise funds to find cures and collect cord blood and tissue donations.

UNIQUE APPROACH

Using cutting edge methods, the Institute is paving the way to find cures using its disease-specific adult stem cells for rare diseases and for cancer. This unique use of disease-specific adult stem cells can potentially save years in the research cycle to find cures. Your donation not only helps to advance cures, but helps advance ethical science. BULLETIN ANNOUNCEMENT

Hello, my name is _____, and our church is participating in the Collection for Cures for the John Paul II Stem Cell Research Institute. I'm happy to announce that this Institute is a pro-life alternative in research for cures. All the research funding goes directly to the Institute, which is focused on finding cures while it promotes the value of human life. The John Paul II Stem Cell Research Institute will NEVER use embryos in their research and is committed to only using adult stem cells. This Institute already has the largest repository of adult stem cells in the world. Our Church is participating in the Collection for Cures to help ethical research which values life.

Please take home a bulletin that has a flyer about the Institute and how you can donate either tissue if you have a genetic disorder or cord blood, which is a baby's after birth if you will be having a baby. They wanted me to tell you that there is also an invitation to become a founder. This is a great opportunity for us to learn about ethical research that is pro-life and join in an effort to find cures to help people with devastating diseases who need our help.

Thank You!
